Introduction

Before the Food and Drug Administration approves a drug, the drug company must show its drug is safe and effective when used as intended. (Safe doesn't mean there are no side effects. Rather, safe means the FDA has found that the benefits of using the drug for its intended purpose outweigh the risks.) Based on the submitted information, the FDA approves drug labeling. This labeling tells healthcare providers the conditions the drug is approved to treat, how to use the drug, and its risks. Off-label use is when a drug is used for a condition or in a way the FDA has not approved. A provider can prescribe off-label use of a drug for several reasons. For example, there isn't a specific drug to treat a medical condition or the drug has been well studied but FDA approval hasn't been requested yet. Many off-label uses have been widely studied with results published in medical literature. This policy describes when off-label uses of drugs may be considered medically necessary.

Note: The Introduction section is for your general knowledge and is not to be taken as policy coverage criteria. The rest of the policy uses specific words and concepts familiar to medical professionals. It is intended for providers. A provider can be a person, such as a doctor, nurse, psychologist, or dentist. A provider also can be a place where medical care is given, like a hospital, clinic, or lab. This policy informs them about when a service may be covered.

Policy Coverage Criteria

Service	Medical Necessity
Off- label use of a drug or biologic agent	Off-label use of a drug or biologic agent may be considered medically necessary if the indication for the use is supported by at least one of the following compendia: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • American Hospital Formulary Service - Drug Information (AHFS-DI) • Elsevier Gold Standard Clinical Pharmacology Compendium (Clinical Pharmacology) • National Comprehensive Cancer Network Drugs and Biologics Compendium (NCCN) • Truven Micromedex [formerly known as Thompson Micromedex DrugDex® Compendium] (Micromedex) OR Scientific evidence shows that the drug/biologic agent is safe and effective for the off-label indication. The scientific evidence must: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Consist of an adequate number of well-designed studies with sufficient numbers of participants (related to incidence of the disease) • Be published in major peer-reviewed scientific journals that publish original manuscripts only after they have been critically reviewed by independent unbiased experts for accuracy, validity and reliability • Show consistent results across all studies • Document a positive health outcome and demonstrate that the drug/biologic agent is as effective or is more effective than established treatment alternatives • Document that the improvements are achievable outside of the research setting

Related Information

Definition of Terms

Compendium: A comprehensive listing of FDA approved drugs and biologic agents that includes:

- The name of the drug or biologic agent
- Summary of the pharmacologic characteristics
- Dosing information
- Recommended or endorsed uses in specific diseases

Drug: A substance intended for use in the diagnosis, cure, mitigation, treatment, or prevention of disease; a substance (other than food) intended to affect the structure or any function of the body. Biological products are included within this definition and are generally covered by the same laws and regulations, but differences exist regarding their manufacturing processes (chemical process versus biological process).

Off-label: Use of a drug or biologic agent for indications or conditions other than those specifically approved by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA). The FDA approved use for drugs/biologic agents are stated in the package insert and available on the FDA website: <http://www.accessdata.fda.gov/scripts/cder/drugsatfda/> (Accessed June 2018)

Benefit Application

Health plan contracts may address off-label use of drugs/biologic agents and refer to various compendia. Over time, compendia merge, change names or cease to exist. The clinical review team uses compendia endorsed by the Secretary of HHS and CMS to support coverage decisions when the compendia referenced in individual health plans are no longer in business.

A product or group's health plan contract may exclude coverage of a medication or a class of medications; such exclusion would override any review for a medical necessity determination or the off-label use of drugs/biologic agents addressed in a Medical Policy.

Alaska

This policy adheres to the laws set forth in the Alaska State Statute AS 21.07.020. Required contract provisions for health care insurance policy. Available at: <http://www.legis.state.ak.us/basis/statutes.asp> (Accessed June 2018).

Oregon

This policy adheres to the laws set forth in the Oregon state revised statutes, Chapter 743A Health insurance: Required reimbursements – Prescription drugs section 743A.062 et al. Available at: <http://www.oregonlaws.org/ors/743A.062> (Accessed June 2018).

Washington

This policy adheres to the laws set forth in the Washington state administrative code, WAC 284-30-450, Insurance Policies and Contracts – Coverage for Drugs, available at:

<http://apps.leg.wa.gov/WAC/default.aspx?cite=284-30-450> (Accessed June 2018).

The off-label or unapproved use of any drugs/biologic agents dispensed within an approved clinical trial may be covered if the member contract allows for coverage of clinical trials or if the criteria are met as set forth in the Clinical Trials policy (see Related Medical Policies).

Evidence Review

Description

Approved indications or the labeled indications for drugs/biologic agents have been proven to be safe and effective by the FDA after the review of adequate and controlled clinical trials.

Unapproved or unlabeled uses of drugs include a variety of situations ranging from completely unstudied to thoroughly investigated uses of the drug/biologic agent, yet approval from the FDA has not been requested.

Many off-label uses are effective, well documented in the literature, and widely used.

National Comprehensive Cancer Network Compendium (NCCN)

The NCCN Drugs and Biologics Compendium is based directly on the NCCN Clinical Practice Guidelines in Oncology. The compendium lists specific panel recommendations for off-label uses of drugs, and each recommendation is supported by a level of evidence category.

The NCCN Categories of Evidence and Consensus used in the recommendations are:

- Category 1: The recommendation is based on high level evidence (eg, randomized controlled trials) and there is uniform NCCN consensus.
- Category 2A: The recommendation is based on lower level evidence and there is uniform NCCN consensus.

- Category 2B: The recommendation is based on lower level evidence and there is non-uniform NCCN consensus (but no major disagreement).
- Category 3: The recommendation is based on any level of evidence but reflects major disagreement.

The accepted level of evidence for an off-label clinical indication is Category 1 or 2A; not 2B. (If a provider chooses to use NCCN level 2B evidence in support of a chemotherapeutic drug used for an off-label indication, The Company expects that the provider will make available for review, copies of significant peer-reviewed Phase II or Phase III studies demonstrating such support.)

Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) Compendia List

In 2008 CMS developed an annual review process (including criteria for transparency in the selection process) to recognize compendia. CMS may internally generate changes to the list at any time following investigation and public comment. On March 22, 2016, CMS announced the addition of Wolters Kluwer Lexi-Drugs® to their list of compendia used by the Medicare program. The following are recognized as authoritative CMS compendia at this time:

- American Hospital Formulary Service - Drug Information (AHFS-DI)
- Elsevier Gold Standard Clinical Pharmacology Compendium (Clinical Pharmacology)
- National Comprehensive Cancer Network Drugs and Biologics Compendium (NCCN)
- Truven Health Analytics Micromedex® DrugDex® Compendium
- Wolters Kluwer Lexi-Drugs®
