Your employer funds your care through an HRA

An HRA is a tax-advantaged funding arrangement. It's funded only by your employer to help pay for qualified healthcare expenses.

Use your HRA

There is an initial amount of expenses, set by your employer, that you must cover before your health reimbursement arrangement (HRA) funds become available.

Once you reach the initial amount, your claims will be paid from the HRA funds until you have used the balance determined by your employer.

You can pay for qualified healthcare expenses with credit card, cash, or check. Be sure to keep your itemized receipts. You may be asked to submit receipts for some purchases.

To be reimbursed by your HRA funds:

- Sign in to your account at premera.com
- Click Personal Funding Account, then Manage Your Account
- Under Payments & Reimbursements, select Create a New Reimbursement

You can be reimbursed by check or direct deposit.

TRIPLE-TAX BENEFIT

Since funds in your HRA aren't considered income:

- They aren't subject to income tax, FICA, or worker's compensation deductions
- You aren't taxed on fund contributions
- Withdrawals for eligible healthcare expenses for you and your dependents aren't taxable

Manage your HRA

When you sign in to your account at premera.com, select Manage Your Account on the Personal Funding Account page to:

- Set up direct deposit
- Check your account balance
- View transactions
- Enter a new claim
- View the status of claims
- Learn when to submit a receipt

Qualified healthcare expenses*

You can use your HRA funds for expenses such as:

- Health plan deductibles, coinsurance, or copays
- Vision care
- Dental care
- Laboratory fees
- Prescriptions
- Hospital charges
- Certain over-the-counter items

Contact your HR department for more information about how your specific HRA benefits work.

*Qualified expenses are based on the options your employer selected and may not include some of the above.
